A. TIPS

NOW IS THE TIME to prepare for the spring offerings of federal grants. The trend has been toward shorter deadlines, and you will be at an advantage if you are already prepared in certain ways before the grant is even announced. Right now, get things like these together if you can, started if you can't finish yet:

- You, your organization and your computer all set up for on-line application, with a current and usable DUNS number, CCR (must be renewed YEARLY), AOR designated and registered (for step by step help, see

- Your grant-writing team set up (who is lead, who will help?)
- Short bios of key personnel in your organization
- Updated business or strategic plan, agreement on what your organization will focus on
- Copy of past 2-year budget summary (audited)
- Current year budget
- List of partners for your projects, copies of MOU's
- First drafts of possible letters of support
- Paragraphs describing the community problem(s) you would like to solve, and why they need attention
- Lists of your assets—what strengths does your organization have? Include people, skills, partnerships, connections, history of success, etc.
- Elevator speech: Make it clear and concise. What does your organization do, and why is it terrific?

Housing agencies, and nonprofits helping customers with housing: Thinking of applying for a US Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) grant in the NOFA this spring? Keep this website, as it will have some bearing-- <http://www.hud.gov/offices/cpd/environment/review/historic.cfm> It is a good site to know about, because it is well put together, and answers important questions about historic preservation and how that might affect your project.

KIDS COUNT: The Annie E. Casey Foundation has made their Kids Count data base more powerful and easier to use. It has long been the premier tool for finding the data you need for grant applications involving children. Now, it features child well-being measures for the 50 largest U.S. cities. It also contains more than 100 indicators, including the most recent data available on education, employment and income, poverty, health, and youth risk factors for the United States as a whole, all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

B. NEWS

The Department of Veteran Affairs (VA) reminds providers and vets that the law now allows certain seriously injured veterans and service members to receive multiple grants for constructing or modifying homes. Before the change, eligible veterans and service members could receive special adaptive housing grants of $10,000 or $50,000 from VA only once. Now they may use the benefit up to three times, so long as the total grants stay within specified limits outlined in the law.

---

Legal Resources - Eric Mittelstadt from Utah Legal Services says that a new office has been opened in St. George. They can provide help for all victims of domestic violence for protective orders, child custody and evictions. They can also help people with disability, senior citizens and people who make up to 125% of federal poverty levels. Anyone can also come to Tuesday Night Bar and get a free consultation. The number for the new office is 435-628-1604.

Grants.gov Update:

1. Getting ready to make those applications when grants are announced: To access applications on Grants.gov that are in Adobe Reader, it is now required to download Adobe Reader version 8.1.1, which is available to download for free on the Grants.gov website: http://www.grants.gov/help/download\_software.jsp
For more information/help, go to <http://www.grants.gov/help/help.jsp>

This is important, because if you continue to use old versions of Adobe Reader, there can be a corruption issue for the application packages.
